How did you first hear about Mindful Philanthropy?

12 responses

- Word of mouth: 33.3%
- Website: 8.3%
- Newsletter: 8.3%
- Social media: 33.3%
- Partnership organization:...
- From Barbara!
- NYU Wagner connection
- DAF advisof

How have you engaged with Mindful Philanthropy over the last year? Check all that apply.

12 responses

- Newsletter: 11 (91.7%)
- Webinar: 10 (83.3%)
- One-on-one meeting: 9 (75%)
- Website: 7 (58.3%)
- Social media: 3 (25%)
- Email: 1 (8.3%)

How has your awareness of mental health and addiction issues grown over the last year?

12 responses

- To a great extent: 41.7%
- Quite a lot: 33.3%
- Somewhat: 25%
- Very little:...
- Not at all
On a scale of 1-10, how confident are you in your decision making around finding impactful opportunities to fund in mental health and addiction?

12 responses

Mindful Philanthropy's programs, knowledge, and meetings have informed your giving to mental health and addiction.

12 responses

Did Mindful Philanthropy's events/meetings/webinars motivate you to give to opportunities or nonprofits in mental health and addiction?

12 responses
If so, how much have you donated to nonprofits working in the mental health, addiction, and well-being sector in the last 12 months?

What areas are you most interested in funding? Check all that apply:

Mindful Philanthropy helped me think about mental health and addiction in the broader context of my philanthropy.
Would you recommend Mindful Philanthropy services to someone in your network?
12 responses

Why or why not?
12 responses

Although Mindful Philanthropy does interesting work on mental health, my primary interest is in addiction and recovery support. I believe strongly in incorporating input from people with lived experience in addiction and recovery, and I haven't seen any evidence that MF values lived experience when it comes to addiction and recovery.

It's an innovative concept and certainly moving philanthropy towards a more progressive model.

You're super knowledgeable and patient with respect to sharing learnings with funders who may be at all different stages of their mental health and addiction grantmaking.

It is a very informative and evidenced based focused organization

Depth of knowledge

It is the only objective support regarding MH funding

Helpful resources and novel approach your finger is on the pulse...

Because of Barbara Ricci

Good resource and frame to focus work.

Good organization trying to look at whole picture
What do you like MOST about Mindful Philanthropy?

12 responses

I appreciate the in-depth look at how various circumstances affect mental health in our diverse community.

branding is excellent

The staff! and the innovative thinking. Moving beyond place based giving.

How knowledgeable and patient you are with respect to sharing learnings with funders who may be at all different stages of their mental health and addiction grantmaking.

The mission to identify resources for mental health services and make them more readily accessible

Collaborative supportive approach

The ability to link and share innovations that work

Your passion for the work is clear! And you provide a unique service.

useful guidance

Barbara Ricci

Branding, connections.

It guides giving
What do you like LEAST about Mindful Philanthropy?
12 responses

I'm disappointed that when it comes to a discussion of addiction, I'm still seeing a primarily prescriptive approach that's lacking input from people in recovery. That is the norm for foundations, unfortunately, and Mindful Philanthropy has the 'relational' capital to do better. By gathering the right people around the table, truly innovative research and policy recommendations are possible. A secondary benefit would be to help break down the stigma and discrimination around addiction (and even around recovery).

Narrower social media content - very trendy in terms of national media focus Unsure where the right points of engagement are. Some opportunities are aimed at funders while others are for partners.

Nothing comes to mind. I just feel bad that we are so early in our journey of incorporating mental health and addiction into our grantmaking-- but I do believe we'll find more concrete things to collaborate on in the future!

That is isn't bigger!

How long things take

Like it all

I don't have time to partake in a lot of the activities.

nothing

IDK

Social media is too pc focused and following the media trends and messaging.

nothing so far