It's hard in the world of horse rescues to know which are legitimate and which are not. Misfits Toys not only does wonderful things for the horses, they do wonderful things for people too.

misfit Toys Rescue Division is a safe haven for misused and unwanted American saddlebreds and sometimes other breeds. Danielle works tirelessly to rescue, respond, and care for a ton of saddlebreds each year. The horses she takes on are all ages, sizes, temperaments. She does a great job of taking these neglected horses, appropriately assessing their personalities and then attempting to place/ re-home them when that's an option. If she can't place them, she finds them space at her own personal farm and cares for them as if they were her own. This non profit is one that I support and will continue to support for years to come. It is truly helping the saddlebred industry and I can't thank Danielle enough for her honest efforts.

Misfit Toys is 1 of very few rescues for American Saddlebred horses, but they don't just stop there! They are home to many other breeds of horses. Misfit toys has taken in unwanted and neglected horses as well as troubled horses that just needed an experienced handler. They are very selective on who adopts the horses so they don't end up in the same situation. As a long time friend, and fellow horse enthusiast I can state with confidence there is no other rescue that truly cares for the well being of their animals. Not just while they are at the rescue but for the remainder of their life.

The family of Misfit Toys works long hours and second jobs to provide the proper care for the horses they were entrusted with. Every horse on this farm is fat and sassy due to the individual attention provided for each one. It's easy to observe how the horses all trust their current care givers, even after the abusive conditions they came from. Settling horses with the correct partners in the field can be difficult, but more enclosures have been created in order to accomplish this. This all takes money, dedication, and hours of hard work. You won't find a better organization to support. You can see every dime you offer goes to the horses.

Misfit toy rescue division's mission statement "We are a 501c3 non-profit horse rescue in Southville, KY. We specialize in problem horses and take in older and severely neglected horses that many other rescues would not usually take. We believe there is a place and a job for every horse, and we take our time training each horse for his new job to ensure his success at his new home. We also commit to providing a home for life to each of our rescues, in case they should ever become unwanted or in need of placement, they can come back here and all are welcome to stay until the perfect home is found." This rescue has dedicated itself to the very welfare of every horse who has entered it's gates. Either it be rescue, adoptions or sanctuary you can be certain they all receive the dedicated and professional attention towards every horse's goal.
